DELAYS IN GAS INSTALLATION ARE EXPLAINED TO TOWN COUNCIL

In view of the fact that some dubious questioning has been floating around the town lately, as to why the natural gas business for which a franchise was given in July, is not making a bigger showing with regard to the starting of the work of installing the pipe lines, etc so that the commodity can be offered for sale and use this coming winter, the following very explanatory letter was presented to the Town Council at their meeting last week from the solicitor for Mr DeVal's franchise holder:

Mr Claude L. DeVal, President of the Wainwright Gas Co. Ltd. has instructed me to advise the Council of the Town of Wainwright as to the progress so far made in the matter of supplying the Town of Wainwright with gas and to indicate in some detail what has been done by him and his associates to begin operations at the earliest possible moment.

On July 27th last Mr DeVal received the contract, dated July 22nd, 1925 between the Town of Wainwright and himself for the supply of gas to the municipality. Mr DeVal immediately began and carried on active negotiations with the representatives of the Maple Leaf Oil Co. Ltd. for the purpose of obtaining an agreement with that company by which he would procure the gas from Maple Leaf well No 1 to enable him to carry out the terms of his agreement with the Town of Wainwright. In this matter I acted for Mr DeVal and his associates and can say from personal knowledge that the negotiations were carried on from the early part of August till about the middle of September continuously, during which time several different drafts of the proposed agreement with the Maple Leaf Co. were made. We also greatly delayed due to the fact that during those negotiations the General Manager of the Maple Leaf Co. was twice changed. This, of course, involved covering the ground all over again in every instance. Actual negotiations took up the greater part of my own time for nearly six weeks, not only during business hours but in the evenings and the same is true to a very large extent of Mr DeVal and his associates.

In his effort to save all possible time Mr DeVal, while those negotiations were going on, went ahead with the incorporation of the Company, and Wainwright Gas Co. Ltd. was incorporated on the 20th of August, 1925 under Letters Patent of the Dominion of Canada with an authorized capital of $175,000.00.

It was impossible to proceed with the organization of the Company until the completion of the contract with the Maple Leaf Co. As soon as the last mentioned agreement was executed the Prospectus of the Wainwright Gas Co. Ltd. was prepared and sent to Ottawa for filing. It was filed on the 18th of September and although a firm of lawyers at Ottawa had been retained at extra expense to see that there was no delay in spite of their best efforts the Prospectus remained in the Departmental office at Ottawa for nearly two weeks, although the Department had assured the Company's lawyers that the Prospectus had been forwarded to us. I mention these details to show that no expense of effort or money has been spared to hasten matters so that the gas could be laid into Wainwright this fall.

Having arranged for the supply of gas the next step was to procure permission from the Department of Public Works of the Provincial Government to lay a pipe line. This, of course, involved surveys and plans and filing of plans and procuring detailed information of ownership, occupancy and area of the various plots of land through which the proposed pipe line would pass. The Wainwright Gas Co. Ltd. made application to the Department of Public Works for permission to lay a pipe line in accordance with the provisions of the new Pipe Line Act passed at the summer session of the Legislature. I draw your attention to the fact that this new Law was passed during the organization of this Company, but in spite of the necessary delay caused by such legislation the Company obtained the necessary permission on the 18th of September subject to satisfying the Department that the Company was prepared to set up on reasonable terms for the lands which it might wish to expropriate. The Company is taking the necessary steps to acquire the land for the pipe line.

The next step was to arrange with the Canadian National Railways for the amount of gas that would be required by their works at Wainwright. This necessitated estimates by expert gas engineers and several conferences and in all involved considerable time. The amount of gas to be supplied to the Canadian National Railways must be definitely determined before the pipe is ordered as the size of the pipe line depends of course, specifically on the amount of gas to be consumed. These negotiations could not be under taken until all the matters above mentioned in this letter had been arranged. Owing to the unusually early winter the Company is encountering unexpected difficulties in commencing immediate actual operations.

The matter of domestic rates for gas in Wainwright will probably be discussed with the Council of the Town of Wainwright in the very near future.

CANADIAN MEN AND WOMEN BACK FROM UNITED STATES

The Mackenzie King Government has been keeping count of the Canadians domiciled for six months or more in the U.S.; who have been streaming back home during the past fifteen months. The Government has also encouraged this "back to Canada Movement" by increasing the number of repatriation and colonization offices in the United States and by increasing the number of agents employed in this work by 200 per cent. This march back from South and North has escaped the attention of gloomy critics who are bent upon proving that Canada is becoming depopulated. The record of this "back to home" movement for the sixteen months from April, 1924 to August 1, 1925 shows a total of 55,945 repatriated Canadians.

SECTION HAND AT HAWKINS STATION TAKES OWN LIFE

A young Swede section hand named Henning Elkberg, who was just 27 years, had only been in Canada one year and at Hawkins since July last shot himself in the section bunkhouse on Wednesday last with a .22 rifle; and although still living when found, died at Toileford on the way to the city where he was rushed in charge of Dr. Stoner, of Irma.

It seems that the man had been troubled with pains in the head, and had spoken of this to his fellow workers. Nothing unusual was noticed about him, however, and the act was deliberate, he leaving his work to go to the bunkhouse.

After investigation by the A.P.P. it was decided that an inquest was unnecessary, Coroner Kellor giving a certificate as stated above.

WOULD REGULATE ALL COMPETITION ON THE RAILWAYS OF CANADA

"Regulated competition." That is the angle from which Premier King says he will approach the railway problem that confronts the country.

No amalgamation. Only the laying down of a certain set of rules under which the Canadian Pacific and the National organizations shall operate that shall be fair to each and to the country. This was what the prime minister told the people of Revelstoke. This was the considered policy of his government. To consent to the private company taking over the national or any arrangement by which the National should absorb the C.P.R. would, Mr King submitted, result in a monopoly in transportation and a state of affairs that would be intolerable.

A communication was received from Mr E. T. Bishop relative to C. L. DeVal and Gas Franchise was read to Council.

(This letter appears in another column)

Huntingford-Knowles—That the letter from Mr E. T. Bishop of Edmonton with regard to the gas franchise agreement be acknowledged and filed and that the Council render all possible assistance if necessary to advance the matter of early installation of the system.—Carried; Coun. Forster voting "Nay."

An application was received from Wainwright Curling Club for use of curling rink at the usual term of $100.00 for season together with use of large rink during the week of Bonspiel and light to be supplied in large rink; also stating that roof of curling rink will have to be renewed.

Stating that roof of curling rink will have to be recovered.

Lissimore-Welch—That the application of the Curling Club re the letting of the curling rink be left with the Finance Committee to report on at next meeting October 21st 1925.—Carried.

The Finance Committee reported having examined the accounts and recommended payment.—Carried.

Forster-Welch—That report of Finance Committee be accepted and cheques issued covering the several amounts.—Carried.

ALBERTA OFFICIALS ARE INVESTIGATING B.C. BEER POLICY

EDMONTON—That the Alberta government is investigating possibilities in connection with the distribution of beer, along much the same lines as adopted in British Columbia is admitted by Hon. J. E. Brownlee, attorney general. It is expected that R. J. Dinning, chairman of the liquor control board, will have a report for the government on the subject in the near future.

If the government undertook to distribute beer it would mean the elimination of all brewery warehouses.

In British Columbia all orders pass through the government, the breweries working on an allotment basis, so far as hotels are concerned. It eliminates much of the competition between breweries, as there is naturally no incentive for them to strive for more business than the government department allows each concern.

Mr Brownlee states that the government has not yet formulated a policy on the question, but it is being investigated.

DICK McNEERN MEETS ACCIDENT PREPARING FOR THE THRESHING

On Monday afternoon, while in the field at his farm at Gilt Edge, removing a granary preparatory to threshing Mr Dick McNeern had the misfortune to be severely kicked in the stomach by one of the horses on the job.

Mr Middlemass was immediately summoned and brought the injured man to town, where he was given all attention until the evening train when he was removed to a hospital in the city where he is still suffering greatly. We hope to hear of his recovery before the next issue.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Wilson, a young college graduate who suddenly turned tramp, has procured a job as fireman on the railroad and is making his home in Crater City. He is a source of mystery and speculation to the whole town. Going to the station lunch room for breakfast one morning he is surprised to find a jaw waitress there and finds himself strangely attracted by this handsome picture of blanching ivory and gold.

CHAPTER V—CONTINUED

"I want you to know I'm sorry that I annoyed you," said Bob hastily, in a penitent and intense voice.

She placed his coffee, and turned to go away.

"Err, Miss Dale, please don't be angry," he begged miserably. She hesitated, resting the rim of her tray on a far corner of the table, and looked at him steadily. "My rudeness came from—my surprise at seeing any one so nice as you in this place, after all these years."

"You are not a native, then?" she asked in a forgiving, tentatively interested way, after a brief scrutiny.

Bob shook his head negatively and started to put sugar cubes in his coffee. He felt on terms of good fellowship with the whole wide world, the June suns of which waited through the open windows a hailing message of awakened, unadorned thoughts. The swiftest forces of an artful nature were at work with rolled-up sleeves on the second growth enthusiasms in Bob's soul.

"I hope that after you've seen more of me here you won't mind if I ask you to—If I ask you to be friends," he ventured, continuing put sugar cubes into his coffee.

"Is that a threat or a promise?" she laughed, genuinely amused by his cautious approach.

Bob laughed, too. They had a second laugh then, together. Miss Triak, who had not missed a trick, did not laugh; nor did Bramley. The one looked jealous.

the other, resigned. Their opportunity for bickering came within a minute, though, when a wild-eyed call boy dashed into the room, came to a disgusted and panting stop when he spotted Bob and the waitress, who were lost to all superficial influences, then advanced toward them and spoke sarcastically.

"Wilson, I've searched all over for you. Morran's going to send your train out with a sub if you ain't there in half a shake. He's down in the yard chewing an oil can now, and six inch sparks is comin' out of his eyes. I wouldn't want to be in your shoes. Sign here, please!" Bob gasped in panic as he saw the time. Twenty minutes to eight! Ten minutes past the scheduled start of his run. He signed the call book, jumped up, smiled at Caroline and hurried away. The memory of the look of concern on her face—as though she were fearful that, somehow, it was her fault and that he would get into trouble on account of her—stopped him at the door. He went back, shook hands with her, then departed—all in a laughing excited, happy rush that even the expectation of being struck by Bolt's verbal lightning could not dispel. Luckily, his day's job was on a local freight while a delay was serious enough; it was not vital or unforgivable.

In the whirl of his departing wake Caroline Dale stood looking with a guilty yet happy smile at the table he had vacated and the breakfast he had left untouched but for the single bite of waffles that had been, well—

"That's what I said, cutie," Miss Triak assured her.

the cause of it all! A soggy, dank pyramid of sugar, the entire contents of the sugar crock which Bob had absentmindedly transferred piece into his coffee cup was a sweet monument to the gay havoc she had wrought upon his mental processes.

"Gee, kid, you're a fast worker!" complimented Miss Triak, backhandedly, a little later. "You're the first one who ever vamped Bob Wilson into looking as though he knew that such things as girls existed in this here mortal place."

"Vamped him, eh? What do you mean said Caroline, aggrieved.

"That's your line, huh—sweet baby innocence—budding daughter asking mama 'how do cats get kittens' stuff. And yet I've known others to pull that pose on him and never get past his jumper buckles."

Caroline swam deftly aside from the current of Miss Triak's superannated sex lore. "Is that his name—Bob Wilson?"

"Right, cutie—but the rest of the family statistics I can't give you," she volunteered castly. "He's been the Elmer Glyn mystery of this burg so long we ain't hoping no more to solve it."

"Clear out of this yard so fast you melt the rails."

Now Caroline was young, remarkable pretty, and intelligent—Life's rarest triangle—lovely and industriously romantic. All in all, here was a nature vibrantly responsive to the lilt and the warm urgings of the petal-sweetened spring air; and she was vividly aware that the young man had some how deposited with her a glowing consciousness of his own freshly youthful, clean-cut good looks even in the undapper habiliments of his daily toil. He was the one bright tracing in the drab pattern of her first impressions of this town and its swarty, swearing, careless bustle. Miss Triak's alluring hints about Bob constituted a bracing challenge to Caroline's spirit, and she met it eagerly, dissembling with the sex craft of a thousand centuries.

cloaking her real interest under a coy air of casualness so well done that it even fooled herself—but not Miss Triak.

"A real, honest-to-goodness mystery how interesting!"

"Yeah, ain't it?" drily.

"Surely he has some relatives that you know of—someone he writes to or visits?"

"Not so's you could notice it. But you can't never tell about them tramps."

"Tramp!" in horror.

"That's what I said, cutie," Miss Triak assured her, with comfortable satisfaction in her own swordsmanship. "He was a plain, ordinary bum when he first came to this town."

The tramping paused to enjoy her sport, and Caroline inwardly wished while she fought to check an outward show of too obvious disappointment. She could feel a racing of hot blood to her cheeks; for the rest, however, she was able to meet Miss Triak's narrow eyes on a cool level.

"Then I think he deserves all the credit in the world for staying and living down his; ain't she sustained travel."

Admiration for the girl's steadfastness in her interest; Miss Triak's mood; admiration; and a keen sense of the communal debt to Bob Wilson.

"He saved the Limited Mail one night, and after that it wasn't no trick for him to get a job around here for he aces high with the trainmen, and they would have been crepe on many a door only for him. Gee, they'd have given him the keys to the city," she finished, with an attempt at humor to cover a pang of realization that it was her own emotions that were in folly cry now, "only it wasn't locked, and there ain't no key for it anyhow."

Caroline felt unaccountably proud of this man she had met but once, and then in a business way. Meanwhile Miss Triak's mood had undergone a complete change. Perhaps it was the fragrant outdoor breeze that had touched her thin cheeks, too; but to her it carried, instead of pubescent implus only reminiscent echoes coming hollowly back through dim years to a sterner present and future.

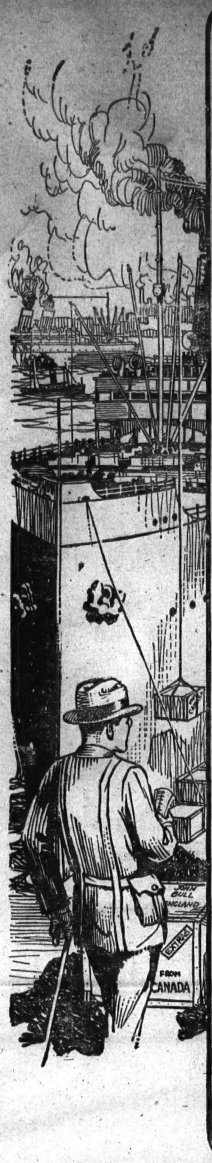

"I had a friend once," she said in a light cracked voice. "Looked something like Bob Wilson, too. But there was nobody to save the train on his night—and the Gorge got him. That was twelve years ago."

Caroline was glad of an interruption at this juncture in the shape of a hungry brakeman. Later, when she was able to idle once more at the cashier's counter, the quicksands of Miss Triak's emotions had turned up a mellowly in formative and friendly strain.

"It's kinda sad as well as secret about that Bob Wilson," she confided. "He's such a nice quiet, well-mannered fellow, and good-natured too, but no one's ever been able to get close to him except Jim Fowler, Postmaster, since he's lived here and never asks or seems to expect any mail. Lordy, his eyes look so lonesome sometimes when he smiles good-morning at you—"

Upon Caroline's declaration of curiosity as to Fowler, Anemone under—

Quality

The most urgent requirement in Canada's Agricultural Products

CANADA produces every year large quantities of wheat, oats, barley, butter, cheese, bacon, beef, eggs, apples, potatoes, grass seed and clover seed that she cannot consume. Her natural outlet for these products is, of course, Great Britain—the one great consuming country of the world with an open market.

Unfortunately, nearly every other country with any surplus of food products seems to want to send its surplus to this same market.

The keenness of the competition on this, our only market, and the energy and resourcefulness of our competitors began to impress themselves upon the Department of Agriculture some time ago, but it is only within very recent years that the real and only way to grapple with this problem has been discovered, or at least put into effect. This Department now believes, as do also most of the farmers of this country, that the "grading" of our agricultural products is the policy and practice that is seeing us through the struggle and will assure us of our rightful place on the British market.

"Grading" means the classifying of products, whether they be hogs, butter, cheese, eggs or anything else, into what might be called in a general way "GOOD", "FAIR" and "POOR" classes.

These exact words are not used in describing the grades, but that is what the purpose served in grading is threefold—

(1) Educational. When the producer sees the relative quality of his product he is spurred on to maintain that quality if it is the "best" or to improve the quality where necessary.

(2) Fair Play. When products are not graded the inferior article for various reasons often brings as much as the superior article, and the credit and advantage of putting the superior product on the market is lost to the one who really deserves it.

(3) Facilitating Trade. The dealer learns to have confidence in the article he is buying and buys more freely, because it is guaranteed by grading, and gradually everybody gets to know what the "best" article really looks like or tastes like. In short, grading brings about standardization and ensures to the producer the best price.

Canada now grades her cereals, grass seeds, hay, potatoes, apples, eggs, butter, cheese, wool and bacon hogs. The results have been in every case beneficial and in some cases quite markedly so, even though the grading system has been in effect in some cases for only two or three years, thus—

Cheese—Grading began April 1st, 1923. Canadian cheese the year before had fallen into such disfavor on the British market that New Zealand cheese was quite commonly preferred. Today Canadian cheese commands a cent per pound higher than New Zealand.

Butter—Grading began same time as for cheese. The reputation of our butter was then indeed at low ebb. Canadian butter today, while not the best on the market, is rapidly improving in quality and gaining in reputation.

Hogs—Over two years ago the Department of Agriculture began to grade live hogs at the packing houses and stock yards. The 10% premium paid by the packers for "select" bacon hogs as against "trim smooth" as classified by departmental graders has done wonders to improve the quality of our hogs and develop the bacon industry.

Best Canadian bacon, which originally was quoted two years ago from 19 to 18 shillings a long hundredweight below Danish, has gradually grown in the estimation of the British wholesale buyer until it is now quoted at only from 1 or less to at most 3 or 4 shillings per long hundredweight below the best Danish.

This improvement in price is, of course, due to quality and has come about very gradually, the spread narrowing down by a shilling or two a month until now it is not at all a rare occurrence to see best Canadian selling on a par with the Danish article.

Eggs—Canada was the first country to grade and standardize eggs. These grades and standards apply not only to export, interprovincial and import shipments, but also to domestic trading.

The basis is interior quality, cleanliness and weight.

Standardizing Canadian eggs has established confidence between producer and consumer and between exporter and British importer, and has resulted in a greatly-increased demand for the Canadian egg both at home and abroad.

Other products might be mentioned where grading has worked to the great advantage of the producer and to the advancement of Canadian agriculture.

Already Great Britain recognizes our store cattle, wheat, cheese, eggs, apples and oats as the best she can buy.

It is for us to so improve our other products, particularly our butter and bacon, as to bring them also into this list of "the best on the British market" and consequently the highest priced.

Grading enabled us to do this for cheese, wheat, eggs and apples.

Grading is helping us to do it for butter and bacon.

Quality Counts

Quality is thus the first objective for the Canadian export trade, and, then steady, regular supply. It is along these lines that the Department of Agriculture is working by educational methods, and the result of this policy is seen in the growing volume of Canada's agricultural exports. Look at these figures—

AGAIN THE

COCONUT TREE

The late Sir John A. Macdonald, after his National Policy got fairly under way, found himself importuned by the manufacturers for higher and still higher tariff duties. He was a Protectionist, but not devoid of humour, and as these demands increased he likened himself to a monkey in a coconut tree shaking down coconuts for the manufacturers underneath. Mr. Meighen is anxious to climb that tree and the Tariff Barons will lose no time in taking their places under, its spreading branches.

Higher tariff duties will make a certain number of people richer, but they will make the great consuming masses poorer. A higher tariff means that everybody will have to pay a little more for the necessities of life and the implements of production. Of what certainly benefit would it be to a manufacturer to have the tariff duty increased on what he produces, unless he was there by enabled to charge more for that product?

A higher tariff will exclude imports and thus give the Canadian manufacturer complete possession of the home market. But of what avail would that monopoly be if he did not charge a higher price than he is now receiving?

Mr. Meighen argues that prices are lower in the United States than they are in Canada. If that be the case, it must be that our domestic manufacturers take advantage of the tariff they already enjoy against the American imports and mark up their prices accordingly. If the tariff be increased, they will make their prices higher.

Are the people anxious to pay more than they are paying now for their clothing, their hats, their shoes, their stockings and everything they wear?
Are they anxious to pay more for food and shelter? Are they anxious to lessen the purchasing power of whatever money they have? If so then let them by all means support the tariff party and its candidates.

CHASSIS NEGLECT

BY ERWIN GREER

(President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago)

The lubrication chart that accompanies your car demands that the chassis be greased ever five-hundred miles. This, however, doesn't interest you even though the modern method of greasing requires a mere twist of the wrist. This hinges on the part of you and other motor car owners in this fair country enables repairmen to put away over $100,000,000 in repair each year. It is directly due to the fact that you neglect to grease the chassis. Moreover your car depreciates badly too, so again you lose when you try to dispose of it.

Can you afford this neglect?
Yet it must be done if you are to avoid stiff-brakes, rattles, squeaks, hard steering and dead springs. These all mean excessive friction, and friction means wear, a breakage of parts, accidents and repair bills. The repairs mean a loss of your valuable time—and good hard cash that you need bad for something else.

The lubricating gun and its fittings are a marvelous improvement over the grease cup, yet once a week you must shoot grease into the bearings if the car is to run quietly and properly. But you don't do it. Possibly it is too much trouble to change into old clothes.
Hence, the reason for the manufacturer of these car greasing equipments establishing thousands of greasing stations where you can have this done for a dollar. Even at one visit a week to the greasing station the bill only runs up to $52 a year. Surely it is worth that in comfort if not repair bills.

But just for the fun of it, now get yours. In the mood, get out and get under as you did in the old days.
Grease the universal joints. Clean grease and adjust the wheel bearings.
And the same with the steering gear.
Ten to one you will find that the ball joint on the steering rod is badly in need of grease. Pack it well with lubri-cat NOW! It may mean a life saved jack up the car body and lubricate the springs. Do a good job here and don't be afraid of too much lubricant. You can wipe it off later. Drain the transmission and rear axle. Wash them out and fill with new lubricant. That how that has annoyed you will then be gone, unless you have waited too long if it is still there—(Good Night)—because you are shortly to pay an exor-sive repair bill for your neglect.

The man who neglects his car pays and pays—and it is his fault but it is own.

HOME MADE

CHILI SAUCE

This is a good time to buy tomatoes for preserving. The season for them is about over and there are plenty that cannot be used for slicing which are too bad at a reasonable price. Very ripe tomatoes are especially desirable for chili sauce, which can be served with meat or used to flavor gravies or soups.

Wash and quarter ten quarts of tomatoes, place them into a large enameled preserving kettle, the vitreous surface of which will not be affected by the tomatoes. Simmer until they draw their own juice, then boil for an hour. Press through an enameled ware colander so that the skins are removed.
Then add the following: chopped fine one stalk of white celery, two dozen onions, two green peppers and one dozen red, hot peppers. Also three cupfuls granulated sugar one cupful of salt and one cup of vinegar. Blend thoroughly. The one-half pound of mixed pickling spices in a cheese cloth and boil in the mixture gently for four hours. Bottle while hot and seal securely.

COMMERCIAL CREDIT

FOR CANADIANS

Every time you purchase away from home, you are sending the dollar to distant lands—every time you are sending that mighty dollar away from home, your children are sure to follow chasing after it, and when they are away, your home is desolate, and your property is worthless.

The value of your farm, your house and your labour is established by its close proximity to markets. Stores, schools and churches are the centre of attraction. The soil of your farm may be ever so rich, and productive, and you may be working ever so hard, but if your markets and stores are at a distance, prosperity is equally far off, and despair close at hand.

If you buy and sell abroad, the value of your labour and your goods are also affected from there. Your children must go there to earn a living, and the rest of the story is told by the home town a place of activity by patronizing your markets—your own stores, and all will be well. Your children are sure to remain with you and strangers from other lands will join in your prosperity.

Here and There

It is expected that the present year will break all records in the movement of Eastern trans-atlantic travellers. It is estimated that over a quarter of a million Americans and Canadians will travel to Europe during the season.

The supply of farm hands for Western farms is not equal to the demand and the shortage is becoming more pronounced as the season progresses, in spite of the large number of immigrants coming from Europe for this purpose.

During the eight months ending March 1925, 187,798 cars of grain were passed by the government inspectors for the western provinces.
This number has only been exceeded four times in the past twenty-four years. Of the total for this year 108,555 were on Canadian Pacific lines.

According to a statement issued by the Bureau of Statistics, Canada's production of commercial fruits for the past year showed a decrease of $8,902,912 in value as compared with 1923. The total value of fruits grown in 1923 was $33,169,343 and in 1924, $24,266,431.

There has been a decided increase in the first quarter of this year in the ordinary life insurance written in Canada as compared with that of the corresponding period in 1924.
The increase in March over February was from twenty-eight to thirty-five million dollars.

According to the first weekly report issued by the Canadian Pacific Railway, the crop acreage this year will be slightly less than last. It is estimated that Manitoba will sow about 2,643,000 acres this year, Saskatchewan 8,555,183 and Alberta 2,721,689 making a total area of 13,919,872 as compared with 14, 153,906 in 1923.

Here and There

During July thousands of osteopaths and members of allied professions gathered in Toronto from all parts of the United States and Canada to attend the International Convention of Osteopaths. Several of the visitors toured the country in the interests of osteopathy.

Final figures showing the total live lobster catch on the Nova Scotia coasts, for the season ending June 1st, show a total of 8,886,990 lbs. valued at $1,364,141, an increase over the 1924 season of 3,887,400 lbs. in quantity and approximately half a million dollars in value.

During his tour of Western Canada over the Canadian Pacific lines, Field Marshal Earl Haig was received on all sides by cheering and enthusiastic crowds. At towns in northern Ontario and elsewhere he shook hands and exchanged reminis-cences with local ex-service men, many of whom he recognized.

Having concluded his visit to the Pacific Coast, His Excellency Lord Byng, Governor-General of Canada, has returned East. Before leaving the West His Excellency stayed off a few days at Banff to meet Earl Haig, and the two famous soldiers spent some time together talking over old times.

Considerable interest has been aroused in London, England, over the arrival there of 8,000 penny blossoms for exhibition in the Canadian Pacific pavilion at Wembley.
The pennies were given by W. Ormiston Roy of Montreal, and have been sent to England to dispel the belief that Canada's climate is excessively cold.

A delegation of prominent newspaper proprietors and journalists from Great Britain passed through Canada recently on their way to attend the Third Imperial Press Conference to be held at Melbourne, Australia, during September. Besides the delegates from the British Isles, representatives of Canada and the other Dominions have been invited and will attend the conference.

Two automobile accidents occurred in Montreal over the week-end at railway crossings, in both of which it was proven that the car struck the train. In the first accident the car ran into the first car behind the engine and in the second struck the side of the engine itself. Public attention has been directed to these accidents as illustrative of the results of negligent driving.

Early in July a party of one hundred French-Canadians associated with the University of Montreal departed from Windsor station on a three-weeks educational tour of the country under the auspices of the University. Mayor Duquette of Montreal, Monsignor A. V. J. Plette, rector of the University and Professor E. Montpetit one of his associates accompanied the party. They were seen off at the station by E. W.
Beatty, K.C., chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Rail-

Good Building Record

One million dollars in building permits in the past nine months is the record at Calgary which is a considerable increase over last year's record.

Publicity Pictures

Motion pictures for distribution among the news reels in circulation were taken the past week to the extent of nearly 1,000 feet in the Edmonton district by representatives of film concerns. These included scenes on the farm of Lord Rodney at Fort Saskatchewan, and the Gillies farm at Clover Bar. Pictures were obtained of the titled students in farming from the old land who are working on the farm of Lord Rodney.

Alberta's Gas Production

For the first time in the province's history, Alberta has taken first rank among the provinces of Canada, in the production of natural gas. The Dominion bureau of statistics report for the production for the first six months of this year states that Alberta's production during that period was 4,687,084 million cubic feet, with Ontario second with a production of 3,257,429 million cubic feet.

Irrigation Settlers

An average of a new settler a day is being placed on the Little Bow North-western Irrigation tract, states James Pike manager for the tract under the provincial government supervision. . . . To take over Poultry Marketing Plans Arrangements for the taking over of the provincial government poultry marketing plan by the provincial poultry pool are under way between the officials of the pool and Hon. Geo. Headley, Minister of Agriculture. This service has been in operation for some years, and has formed a substantial nucleus for the new pool.

EXHIBITS INTERNATIONAL

Two thousand farmers in the province are being notified by the Department of Agriculture of the forthcoming International Hay and Grain Show at Chicago, from November 28 to December 5, at which Alberta farmers have always been prominent exhibitors. Farmers who intend to exhibit this year are asked to have their entries made in Chicago by November 9. Exhibits are to be shipped to the seed cleaning plant of the Department at Edmonton, from where the Department will pay freight or express to Chicago. The exhibits are to be in place at Chicago by November 23. The Department will also bear the expense of putting up the exhibits. The Department is offering again an honorarium of $150 for each grand championship won by an Alberta farmer, and $100 for each first prize.

EXTENSION OF
MIXED FARMING

Straight grain farming, or wheat raising, as it is called in Western Canada, is gradually but surely becoming a thing of the past in the three prairie provinces. Almost every farmer in the west today has at least a few pigs, cows or poultry, and some sort of a vegetable garden from which he secures food not only for himself and family, but also sufficient returns to look after his current expenses on a cash basis. Manitoba and Alberta undoubtedly lead in this development but even Saskatchewan, the largest wheat producing province of western Canada, has an ever-increasing number of farmers who are followers of the mixed farming plan to the extent that they are living very largely upon the products of their farms.

INSPECTING LAND HOLDINGS

Shaping plans for settlement, next year, of 325,000 acres of land in Alberta and Saskatchewan, Canadian directors of the British Dominion Land Settlement Corporation are now touring the west in company with Major-General the Hon. Sir Newton James Moore, K.C.M.G., and former premier of West Australia. Sir Newton spent a few days in Winnipeg, before starting on his tour, conferring with officers of the organization which has been operating in the west since last spring, and has discussed plans for future settlement of land and immigration work. The land settlement scheme instituted last year by the organization is an ambitious project and has as its object the location of British settlers. Land to the extent of 325,000 acres, chiefly in Alberta, has been acquired and a fair amount of settlement has been done this year. It is expected that this plan for next year will be much more extensive than those already carried out. The personnel of the party which is now touring western Canada over Canadian National lines includes Sir Newton Moore, Robert McKay, W. P. Dutton, W. H. Carter and M. A. Brown.

BROKEN BARRIERS
HAS BIG STAR
CAST AT ELITE

"Broken Barriers," Reginald Barker's new special production for Metre is to play at the Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday. This picture, a screen version of Meredith Nicholson's novel has what appears to be the biggest all-star cast of the year; fans will find a continual parade of their favorites across the shadow stage. James Kirkwood appears as Ward Trenton, estranged from his wife (Winifred Bryson) who will not allow him a divorce to marry the girl he loves (Norma Shearer). The story hinges on the efforts of this pair to smash the barricades of convention that stand in the way of their happiness and shows the effect on a wide number of people of their efforts to change old morals for new.

Mae Busch appears as a girl infatuated with a lively man-about-town, played by Adolphe Menjou, is the third member of this secondary triangle in the picture. George Fawcett appears as the father of the heroine, whose sister in the picture is played by Ruth Stonehouse who in this picture makes her return to the screen after a long absence. There is still another angle to the story that requires expert acting, dealing as it does with the younger generation. Robert Agnew and Vera Reynolds appear as two jazz-crazed young people, recklessly skidding down the primrose path with twice the pace and zest of their elders.

"Broken Barriers" is a Louis B. Mayer presentation through Metro.

Limited Mail

took to describe the friendship of Bob and Jim and how it came about. When Anemone put her heart into it the narrative of her gossip could be illuminating. Caroline was spared no detail of the Danes and Pythias friendship of Bob and Jim, or the manner of their bachelor life in the little cottage under the tip of Mrs. O'Leary's wide wing. She started with the courtship of Jim and his wife; thrillingly described the events of the night upon which Bob saved the Limited; and garnished the whole tale with a salary recital of the choicest speculations of Crater City's eligible and scheming females as to the identity and the past of the aloof Bob Wilson. When Miss Triak had finished, Caroline felt as much in the atmosphere of Crater City's favorite mystery as though she, too, had lived there and known personally of these things through the years.

"And it's the nicest thing how those two fellows care for that kid," she gossiped in conclusion. "They both seem to love him so much that it's hard to tell who's really the father. Scandal!" she giggled, behind a sly finger. Then seriously again, "He loves them, too. He calls them 'Daddy Jim' and 'Daddy Bob.' Jim is a mail clerk, you know, and his run is at night—on the Limited; and Bob is mostly away in the day so it works out smooth. They don't see each other as much as they'd like to. Jim was telling me only a couple of days ago. Everybody in Crater City says no power on earth could ever come between Bob and Jim."

"And Mr. Wilson—is he a mail clerk, too?" Caroline asked, innocent of the caste prestige borne by Bob's jumper suit.

"Engineer," said Anemone laconically, "and believe me, he throws a wicked throe, according to what the boys all say. Started in as a fireman, but Bob's Morran promoted him in his time. I heard he was offered a chance to go in the construction department at Frisco, but he just laughed."

"Isn't he ambitious?"

"Yeah, he wants to get the throat of the Limited, so's he can be on the same run with his friend, Jim Fowler."

"Oh!"

"He's next in line for the Limited, too, when Morran is retired. Say, look smart, that brackie wants something else."

"Meanwhile, the virile subject of the lunchroom gossip had long since reached the yards and faced the ice of Morran. Bob's sleek locomotive had already been brought out by one of the roundhouse hostlers and was ready for him with a full head of steam up. But between Bob and the step to his cab stood Bolts and his electric eyes.

"Sorry, old man," said Bob, anticipating the storm with an umbrella of contention, "but I just met the greatest girl in the world!"

The thunder and lightning were dissipated by a shifting wind, but the clouds remained; "Oh, you saw her, too?"

"Have you seen her?" Bob asked enthusiastically.

"—wait a minute, Wilson, let me finish. I just wanted to say that inasmuch as this is the first time you've ever been late, we can overlook it. But it isn't much to your credit that your excuse is the same one that every damn fellow—in this Yarc gave this morning—and if there's any other guy late on account of her, I'll make the Division Super have the Larvey people chase her back where she came from damn, quick!"

Now hook up your boiler to your string and clear the hell out of this yard, so fast you melt the rails—the whole schedule is shot to pieces now—It was an undampened Bob who jockeyed the big freight engine back and forth in the Yard with a reckless skill and a savage disregard that kept his coupling braken on edge and cursing him.

"What in hell are you so happy for?" asked the fireman some time later when they were rumbling swiftly along for a clear right of way, as he came up for a breath of air and a bit of gossip. "Didn't Morran scorch you for being late?"

"No, lied Bob with gusto, "he complimented me on my taste when I told him the same thing that I'm going to tell you—which is, that I've just met the greatest girl in the world!"

"They're all great when you first meet 'em!" said the fireman scrambling down to his swaying firebox floor to avoid the grease stiffened seat cushion that Bob flung heatedly at him.

"Throughout that long and fragrant day the epidemic unabated in Crater City. Trainmen came and went on the ice. Some were noted by Miss Triak to have meals in quick succession. The fever extended sympathetically to the business section of the town. By late afternoon there was not a woman, except those housewives in quiet family circles to which the pain had not yet penetrated, and not a man—save one Jim Fowler—who had not seen her the men to admire the women to inquire. But Miss Triak having develop-

Hobby-Horse Chair on Springs Kept Cromwell in Training

One of the reasons for Oliver Cromwell's fame is the fact that he successfully developed the cavalry units of his army to a high degree of efficiency.

demonstrating the value of homes in many battles. An interesting sidelight on this phase of his career has attracted attention recently in a curious anecdote with a seat resting on high springs extending above the bottom frame. When home from campaigns and too busy to take regular exercise on his mount, Cromwell is said to have exercised in this chair, bouncing up and down for a short period each day to keep himself accustomed to the motions of horseback riding. The relic is now in the possession of Premier Baldwin of England and was demonstrated by him when friends visited him at his residence.

Radio Control on Railways to Start and Run Trains

A radio system capable of operating railway trains, throwing switches, and providing means of communication with passengers, all from a central point, has been described by G. T. Allen, of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. It is entirely possible, he said, through a combination of electric and radio supervisory control, to start a train without a crew from a station, operate it at full speed, or to slow or stop it automatically in compliance with automatic block signals, permitting a central dispatcher to control and supervise completely all movements of trains on a system. The carrier-circuit of signaling and communication, as the process is called, is based on the principle that wireless waves will practically follow along the course of wires without leaving them, if propelled in a certain way.

Making Giants Out of Mice and Men

Rats as large as raccoons and guinea pigs as big as badgers are possibilities as a result of a discovery by a scientist of the University of California, while its application to cattle, sheep and hogs, as well as to geese, ducks and chickens, would result in such an increase in size and rapidity of growth that one-half the live stock now produced would furnish the same quantity of foodstuffs as those raised today.

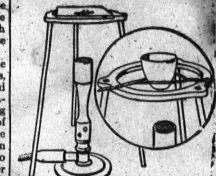

The discovery was made, after nine years' work, by Dr. Herbert M. Evans, who also announced that he had found that barren animals may be made capable of producing young by feeding them with a certain food. The first of these findings is that the extract of the pituitary gland, a tiny organ hidden in the base of the brain, when injected into the tissues of living creatures, no matter what their age, starts a period of growth limited in time, amount and rapidity only by the quantity administered and the duration of administration. Rats born in the same litter and treated daily with "pituitaria" extract outgrew by fifty per cent other rats of the same litter reared under the same conditions but without pituitaria.

Dr. Evans says he does not know when it will be possible to apply this treatment to human beings, because his experiments are not yet complete, and because of the difficulty of obtaining a purified extract from the pituitary gland. The fluid which was used in the experiments was obtained from tadpoles. However, the administration of the pituitary extract produces the same result in all mice, regardless of age or sex, there is every reason to believe that it will have the same effect on larger animals, even to man.

Making Crystals at Home

Good crystals can be made at home. Crystal set users are always anxious to try new crystals, and many of those now on the market are not as good as they should be. The ingredients used are powdered lead and sulphur, and when properly made will equal, in clearness and volume many of the best commercial types. Lead shavings can be melted on an iron plate over a gas stove, but if the crystal maker is equipped with a porcelain crucible and Bunsen burner the lead can be handled more easily.

Methods of Making Lead and Sulphur on Iron Plate and in Crucible for Making Synthetic Crystals

When the lead is molten, sprinkle powdered sulphur over it and stir with a iron wire. The lead, if hot enough, will then burn with a blue flame, and the result is a synthetic form of lead sulphide which, when cool, will set as a good detector.

ed a sudden liking for Caroline, double crossed the neighboring tabbies and scratched out all attempts at catty gossip. Many a substantial supper went cold over the home-fires that day; it would not be so tomorrow, when the news had reached the hearthstones for then housewives would be applying old-fashioned remedies to wandering spouses. But today—Larvey's Crater City Branch did the biggest single day's business in its history.

Jim Fowler had spent a quiet afternoon at home playing with his son Bobby, in the bright sunshine of their little backyard. On his periods at home Jim slept until nearly noon as a rule because his run did not bring him in until well after midnight. If Bob was on early call, as this morning, he usually left Bobby to be awakened and dressed and breakfasted by Mrs. O'Leary when she came into her daily dozen on the dusty mantels and topped beds and tables.

Colonizing in Alberta

Sir Newton Moore, with other directors of the British Dominions Land Settlement Association, from London, England, have recently visited the city which is colonizing a large area in north-eastern Alberta, north of Vermilion. This is the territory to be traversed by the Cutenife branch of the C.P.R. and the directors have obtained a promise, from that railway company for a further extension on this branch in the near future.
